Manchester Statement of Community Involvement Compliance Statement Publication Draft Places for Everyone 2021

1. Publication Draft Places for Everyone (2021)

Manchester's Statement of Community Involvement (SCI) was adopted on 11th June 2018. It sets out how and when the community can be involved in the preparation of planning documents and in the determination of planning applications.

The diagram on page 2 is taken from the SCI and summarises the stages where the public will have the opportunity to be involved in Local Plan preparation. It states that those in bold will always be used, whereas the others are desirable and their use will depend on the scope of the document being consulted on and the resources available for consultation.

The publication draft Places for Everyone 2021 was produced as a joint Development Plan Document (DPD) and therefore the consultation/engagement set out in Manchester's SCI for Local Plans must be followed. The PfE was subject to consultation from 9th August 2021 to 3rd October 2021. At this stage, according to Manchester's SCI, essential engagement methods are Social media, Website, Emails and Letters. The desirable engagement methods are Questionnaires, Surveys, Exhibitions, Meetings, Focus groups and Leaflets.

Essential engagement

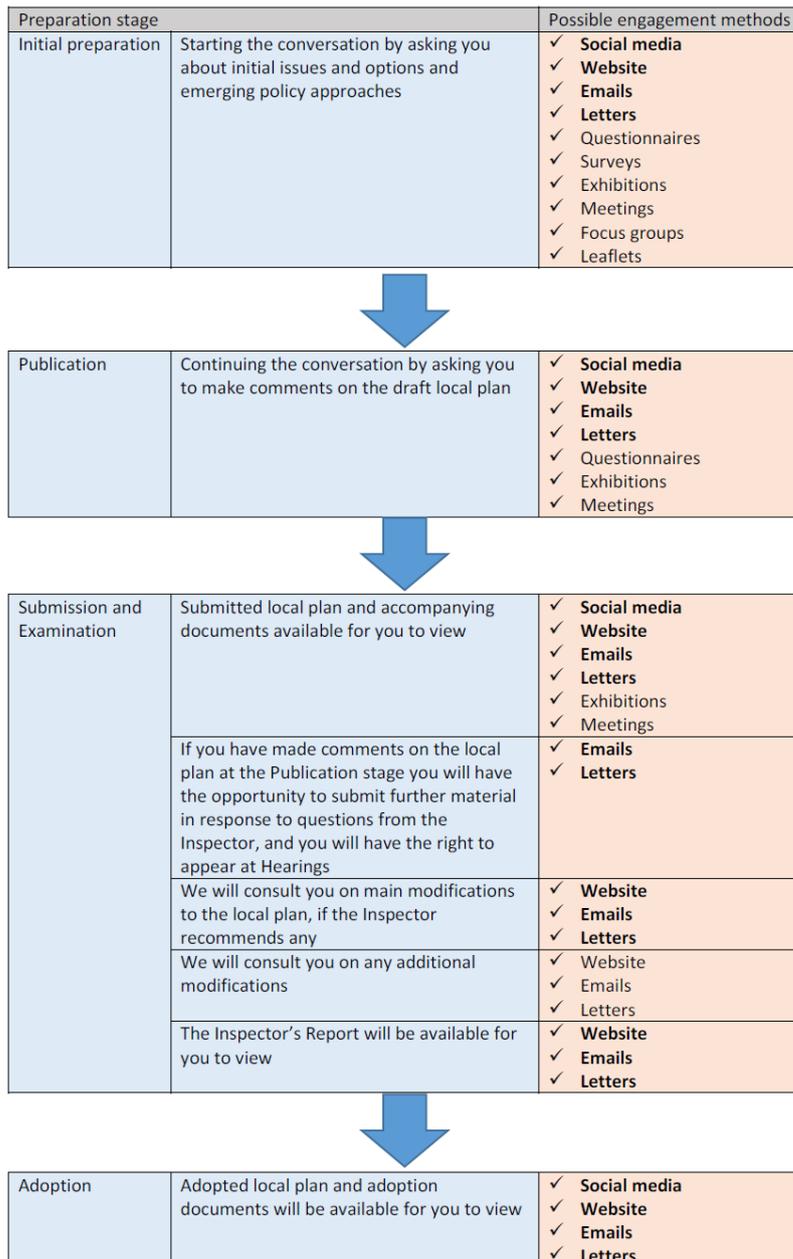

At the start of the consultation Manchester City Council uploaded a web page dedicated to the consultation and made hard copies available to view in Manchester Central Library. The Council also contacted all stakeholders on the Planning Policy database by their preferred method, setting out the Statement of Representations. This was mainly by email (attached in Appendix 1) but also included letters to those consultees that wished to be informed in that manner. The Council also began a programme of social media alerts coordinated with the GMCA. Appendix 1 includes examples of the social media content produced at the time.

Desirable Engagement

In addition to the essential engagement the Council also put up site notices which were placed at locations across both proposed allocations at Global Logistics and Medipark Extension. The notices informed the public that the PfE consultation was taking place, that the site was proposed for employment and also provided information on how to view the Plan and submit comments. Copies of the site notices and example photographs of them on display are set out in Appendix 1. Local media also featured the consultation and screenshots of the relevant articles have been included in Appendix 1.

Planning officers were available to deal with enquiries about the PfE by telephone (during normal office hours), e-mail or letter. The Planning Strategy email address planningstrategy@manchester.gov.uk through which enquiries were made.

2. Greater Manchester Spatial Framework (2019)

The Greater Manchester Spatial Framework (GMSF) was produced as a joint Development Plan Document and therefore the consultation/ engagement set out in Manchester's SCI (2018) for Local Plans was followed. The draft GMSF was subject to consultation in January/February 2019. In accordance with Manchester's SCI, essential engagement methods were Social media, Website, Emails and Letters. The desirable engagement methods were Questionnaires, Surveys, Exhibitions, Meetings, Focus groups and Leaflets.

Essential engagement

At the start of the consultation Manchester City Council uploaded a web page dedicated to the consultation and made hard copies available to view in Manchester Central Library. The Council also contacted all stakeholders on the Planning Policy database by their preferred method. This was mainly by email (attached in Appendix 2) but also included a few letters. The Council also began a programme of social media alerts coordinated with the GMCA (see appendix 2 for examples of social media).

Desirable Engagement

In addition to the essential engagement the Council also held two drop-in engagement events. These were held in the Central Library which is easily accessible by public transport by anyone in the City and Wythenshawe Forum. Wythenshawe was chosen as the only allocations for Manchester in the GMSF are in this area and, therefore, Wythenshawe residents were given an additional opportunity to be involved.

The drop-in events were held:

- 15.00 to 19.45 Tuesday 26th Feb, Central Library (Lower Ground Floor); and
- 16.00 to 20.00 Wednesday 27th Feb, Wythenshawe Forum

Posters (Appendix 2) were displayed in the Town Hall and in Wythenshawe Forum to advertise the events, details were made available on the GMCA website and social media. At each event a range of information on the draft GMSF was displayed including a board specifically on Manchester allocations. Manchester Officers were joined by Transport for Greater Manchester officers at both events and distributed summary leaflets and postcards. There were 22 people who attended the drop-in event in the Library and 18 in Wythenshawe Forum.

3. Greater Manchester Spatial Framework (2016)

The consultation undertaken in 2016 followed the Statement of Community Involvement, which at that time was the version adopted in 2007. The SCI was set out on the basis of the regulations that were in force at the time and hence referred to different stages of consultation compared to those that pertain now.

The relevant section in the SCI (2007) is reproduced below setting out how the Council would undertake consultation on draft local plans (development plan documents).

Extract from Manchester City Council's Statement of Community Involvement (2007)

' Production

6.5 This stage covers all of the rest of the writing process for the document. It will begin at the same time as the pre-production evidence gathering is going on, and will involve the Council gathering the views of the community and stakeholders on key issues that the Development Plan Document will need to address.

6.6 Regulation 25 of the Town and Country Planning (Local Development) (England) Regulations 2004 requires the Council to consult "specific" and "general" consultation bodies before and while it prepares policies. Specific consultation bodies are listed in Appendix B and must be consulted "to the extent that the local planning authority thinks that the proposed matter of the Development Plan Document affects the body". General consultation bodies are defined as:- voluntary bodies some or all of whose activities benefit any part of the authority's area, bodies which represent the interests of different racial, ethnic or national groups in the authority's area, bodies which represent the interests of different religious groups in the authority's area, bodies which represent the interests of disabled persons in the authority's area, bodies which represent the interests of people carrying on business in the authority's area.

6.7 Examples of the types of groups these will cover in Manchester are given in Appendix C but a list of the actual groups is not included as this will go out of date too quickly. The list will be updated as necessary using information from the Council's Local Groups database. Government Office for the North West will also be consulted at each stage.

6.8 The next phase in the production stage will be to write policies as a set of preferred options, along with a resumé of the alternatives that were considered.

Stakeholders will be consulted while the preferred options are being produced via the email sounding boards (see Chapter 8). Regulation 26 requires the preferred options document to be made available for six weeks of public participation. During this time the Council will put the document in libraries across Manchester and in Planning Reception on Level 7 of the Town Hall Extension and also on the Council's website. The Planning Strategy team has a database of people who have expressed an interest in the Local Development Framework and all of these people will be notified at this stage as well as the specific consultees. The website link to the document will be circulated through the Community Network for Manchester's networks. Full details of the proposed methods of community involvement are given in Chapter 8. The economic, social and environmental impacts of Development Plan Document policies will be measured by assessing the policies against a range of Sustainability Appraisal objectives so that policies can be amended to minimise negative impacts. Chapter 10 sets out how the Sustainability Appraisal process will work.'

The GMSF was at the draft stage and was required to meet Regulation 18 (The Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012). The requirements included making the document available for comment and this was achieved through the GMCA website and the link to Objective. Manchester used its local plan database to inform specific and general consultees.

The formal consultation was scheduled to run for 8 weeks from the 31st October to the 23rd December 2017. Following a request to the GMCA on the 16th December the consultation was extended to Monday the 16th January 2017.

A range of methods were used to ensure the public and those interested in the GMSF were informed about the consultation. The aim of the consultation was to meet statutory requirements, be more pro-active, deliver information locally and sign post responses to the GMCA website and consultation portal. It was also to reach an audience that included, elected members, MP's, local groups and organisations, industry, business and investor, local, regional and national media and other stakeholders.

Prior to Consultation

In the six weeks prior to the draft GMSF consultation going live, an active Blog with articles covering GMSF themes was posted weekly. A full list is set out in Appendix 1. They included articles relating to a range of issues that the GMSF is working to address. The Blogs were tweeted and links shared on social media.

After the start of the consultation blogs were posted at regular intervals and covered natural capital and the urban environment, the use of brownfield sites across GM and an interim summary of the feedback from GMSF consultation events .

Launch Date

On the 31st October 2016, the launch date of the consultation there was an article in the Manchester Evening News plus an advert informing people of the consultation details. Printed copies were available at all the principal local authority offices and some libraries.

Events

In addition to the essential engagement the Council also held two drop-in engagement events. These were held in the Central Library which is easily accessible by public transport by anyone in the City and Wythenshawe Forum.

The drop-in events were held:

- 12.30 to 20.00 9th November, Central Library; and
- 15.00 to 20.00 12th December, Wythenshawe Forum

Statement of Representation Procedure Notice

(Regulation 19: The Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012) August 2021

This statement relates to the Places for Everyone Joint Development Plan Publication Draft 2021 (PfE2021). A brief explanation of the background of this document and its relationship to other development plan documents being produced by the relevant nine Greater Manchester districts is provided below.

Background

In 2014, the ten Greater Manchester local authorities agreed to prepare a joint Development Plan Document, the Greater Manchester Spatial Framework (GMSF), with the GMCA co-ordinating its production on behalf of the ten districts. In December 2020, Stockport Council took the decision to withdraw from the GMSF. Subsequently, the nine remaining authorities (Bolton, Bury, Manchester, Oldham, Rochdale, Salford, Trafford, Tameside and Wigan), agreed to continue to progress a joint Development Plan Document for themselves, known as Places for Everyone, which will form part of their individual district local plans.

PfE2021 provides the strategic policy framework for the districts including the overall scale and distribution of development, the spatial strategy, strategic site allocations and Green Belt boundary amendments together with a number of strategic thematic policies which will be used to manage development and determine planning applications in the individual districts. PfE2021 is accompanied by a Policies Map which shows the allocations and designations in the Plan.

Documents available for inspection

PfE2021 and supporting/background evidence documents are published on the GMCA Website on behalf of the nine districts. Additionally, copies of PfE2021 documentation will be made available in accordance with the Town and Country

Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012 and the requirements of each district's Statement of Community Involvement (SCI).

A copy of the PfE2021 plan may be seen at Manchester Central Library, St Peter's Square, Manchester M2 5PD, on Monday to Thursday 9am to 8pm and Friday and Saturday 9am to 5pm.

Period of Submission for Representations

Representations are invited on the PfE 2021, Publication Draft for a period of eight weeks from Monday 9th August until 23:45 on 3rd October 2021.

Representations at this stage should only relate to PfE2021 and its supporting/evidence base documents which have been published alongside it. Comments made previously, during stages of consultation in relation to the GMSF, have been summarised in the Statement of Consultation report, which will form part of the submission documentation.

Whilst representations may be made on any point in respect of PfE2021 and its supporting/evidence base documents, only those pertaining to the four tests of soundness¹ will be taken into account by the Inspector at the Examination.

How to make representations

Representations can be made by:

Preferably completing the online response form at: www.gmconsult.org

Alternatively, downloading the response form available on the GMCA Website and emailing it to placesforeveryone@greatermanchester-ca.gov.uk

You can also submit your comments to us by:

- o email to: placesforeveryone@greatermanchester-ca.gov.uk
- o post to: The Planning and Housing Team, Greater Manchester Combined Authority, Broadhurst House, 56 Oxford Street, Manchester, M1 6EU

What Happens Next

Once the period for making representations finishes, it is intended to submit the PfE2021 Plan to the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government so that it can be assessed through an Examination in Public by an appointed Planning Inspector(s).

It will be the role of the Independent Planning Inspector(s) to examine whether the plan meets the tests of soundness in the National Planning Policy Framework and meets all the relevant legislative requirements. All representations received before the deadline will be submitted electronically to the Secretary of State for consideration by the Planning Inspector(s) as part of the Examination in Public. Comments and names will be published. Full details of how your information will be shared can be found in the PfE2021 Privacy Notice. Please refer to the representation guidance notes when preparing representations.

How to participate in the Examination

By using the response form you will be asked whether you wish to participate in the Examination and whether you wish to be notified of any of the following:

- Submission of the PfE2021 for independent examination.
- Publication of the Inspector's Report on the Examination of the PfE2021.
- The Adoption of the PfE2021

Alternatively, if you make representations by email or by letter, you should state whether you wish to participate in the Examination and/or be kept informed of the progress of PfE2021.

To its right are links for 'Accessibility', 'Sign in', and 'Register'. A search bar contains the text 'Search (e.g. Council Tax)'. Below this is a red navigation bar with the breadcrumb 'Home / Consultations and surveys / Places for Everyone consultation'. The main content area features a red speech bubble icon and the text 'Consultations and surveys'. The title 'Places for Everyone consultation' is prominently displayed. Below the title, a bold heading states 'This consultation is now closed'. The text explains that the plan is a long-term plan for nine Greater Manchester districts (Bolton, Bury, Manchester, Oldham, Rochdale, Salford, Tameside, Trafford and Wigan) for jobs, new homes, and sustainable growth, prepared by the GMCA. It details the plan's goals: to determine development types, maximize brownfield and urban spaces while protecting green belt land, and ensure sustainable integration into the transport network. A 'b' logo in a speech bubble is visible in the bottom right corner.

Screenshot 2 of 3:

This screenshot shows the detailed text from the consultation page. It begins with a paragraph stating that the plan is the result of a process starting with the 2016 Greater Manchester Spatial Framework, informed by feedback from residents, businesses, and the development industry. A section titled 'Have your say' invites public input, noting that the period for representations is between 9 August and 3 October 2021. It mentions that the plan will be submitted to the Secretary of State with supporting documents and that an Independent Inspector(s) will be appointed for an examination. A link is provided to 'Read the plan and supporting documents in full and find out more information about the proposals'. The public consultation period is reiterated as Monday, August 9 until Sunday, October 3. Finally, it provides contact information: email at placesforeveryone@greatermanchester-ca.gov.uk or by post. The 'b' logo in a speech bubble is again visible in the bottom right corner.

New masterplan for jobs and housing in Greater Manchester set to go out to public consultation

Places for Everyone replaces the Greater Manchester Spatial Framework which was abandoned by leaders last year

(Image: ABNM Photography)

A much-delayed masterplan for building new homes and creating more jobs in Greater Manchester will go out to public consultation next month.

Places for Everyone will set out what land in the city-region can be freed up for different kinds of development over the next 16 years.

The document, which has not yet been published, replaces the Greater Manchester Spatial Framework (GMSF), which was abandoned last year after it failed to win the support of Stockport council.

READ MORE : Greater Manchester's masterplan for all 10 boroughs is officially dead

It will cover Manchester, Salford, Trafford, Rochdale, Oldham, Tameside, Bolton and Bury subject to the support of the councillors representing the individual local authorities.

Almost 165,000 new homes are proposed - down from the 180,000 in the 2020 version of the GMSF, and the 227,000 suggested in the first draft in 2016.

Like its predecessor, Places for Everyone will consider building on the green belt, which is the main point of contention amongst objectors, including the Stockport opposition parties which forced the creation of a plan of nine.

But leaders have been at pains to stress that the impact of green belt development will be reduced by 60 per cent compared to the 2016 version of the GMSF.

What do you think of the plans? Have your say in our comments below

Around 90 per cent of the new homes envisaged in the plan will be built in urban areas, while also maximising the use of brownfield sites.

While it remains unclear if each borough's land allocations will change from the GMSF, Oldham council has already announced a scaling down of development, including on the green belt.

Greater Manchester mayor Andy Burnham, announcing the impending publication of the plan at a press conference on Monday, said: "This is the radical rewrite that was promised.

Andy Burnham and Paul Dennett at the announcement of the 2019 version of the GMSF (Image: Manchester Evening News)

"We are still bound by government housing targets, which have recently increased in Manchester city centre, and we have to work within that framework.

“But we’ve done a huge amount to listen to what people have told us and to remove green belt sites from the plan as much as we are able to.

“It isn’t just about protecting green space, the existence of a plan protects the green belt from speculative development.”

Mr Burnham said Places for Everyone would sit alongside other schemes due to be rolled out across Greater Manchester including the Bee Network, the integrated public transport system outlined by the mayor earlier this year.

Communities will be able to bid for a slice of a £5m green spaces fund to improve small public green spaces such as pocket parks.

The transformation of green spaces also factors into major developments such as Victoria North, the plan to build 15,000 new homes along the Irk River valley in North Manchester, as well as the city’s first public park at Mayfield and the 154-acre RHS Bridgewater national garden in Salford.

Greater Manchester also wants to build 30,000 ‘zero-carbon’ homes for social rent; protect the future of the region’s industrial mills by converting them into viable residential and employment uses; create more mayoral development corporations (MDC) outside of Stockport to accelerate the regeneration of specific areas.

Mr Burnham said: “Greater Manchester is setting out a clear and ambitious vision for new homes, enhanced green spaces and revitalised town centres. Linked to our plans for a zero-carbon future and good jobs and growth, this vision represents a major milestone as our city-region maps out its recovery from the pandemic.

"If we want to build back from the pandemic in a way that brings everyone with us and strikes at the root of inequality, we need a plan that strengthens our economy and our society against future challenges, and puts us in the best position to take advantage of new opportunities."

Paul Dennett, the city mayor of Salford and Greater Manchester's lead for housing and homelessness, added: "Now is the time to be moving forward with an ambitious vision for a recovery focused on delivering good-quality affordable homes, creating good jobs, and boosting our transition to a low-carbon economy."

"We are absolutely committed to sustainable development that makes the best possible use of space and protects our places from the threat of unplanned development."

"Ninety per cent of the new homes in this plan will be located across urban areas, meaning growth can happen in places where we want it, and not be dictated by planning appeals."

The Places for Everyone plan will be scrutinised by a joint committee of representatives from each of the districts on July 20.

It will then be considered by councillors from all nine authorities through July and August and, if approved, will go out to an eight-week public consultation from August 9 to October 3.

More than 27,000 residents gave feedback on the first GMSF draft in 2016, with the second round of consultation attracting over 17,500 responses.

Following the consultation the document will be submitted to Robert Jenrick, secretary of state for housing, communities and local government, in January 2022.

People in Greater Manchester are being invited to have their say on a new masterplan for building homes and creating new jobs in the city region.

The project, called Places for Everyone, is the successor to the Greater Manchester Spatial Framework, which was scrapped in 2020.

It sets out what land will be freed up for development to meet government targets.

A public consultation will run for eight weeks.

The move comes after councils across the area - except for Stockport, which pulled out of the spatial framework plan in December - backed a draft document despite opposition from some councillors, the Local Democracy Reporting Service said.

The housing blueprint sets out what land will be freed up for development. People will be asked if the plan meets "tests of soundness" before it is sent off to the government for examination.

These include whether it promotes economic growth and makes provision for development, and whether it is backed up by robust evidence, based on effective and achievable policies and meets national planning policies.

The consultation is the final stage in the preparation of the plan, which proposes to build 165,000 new homes - down from the 227,000 in the earlier draft, and with a 60% reduction in green belt development compared to the first version. Of these homes, 50,000 will be classed as affordable housing, with 30,000 available for social rent.

More than 55 million sq ft of office, industrial and warehousing space is also proposed across the nine boroughs.

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am emailing you as you are on Manchester City Council's planning policy database.

Greater Manchester's Plan for Homes, Jobs, and the Environment (the spatial framework) has been put together by Greater Manchester Combined Authority, which comprises the Mayor of Greater Manchester and the leaders of Greater Manchester's ten local councils.

This plan is about providing the right homes, in the right places, for people across our city region. It's about creating jobs and improving infrastructure to ensure the future prosperity of Greater Manchester.

The plan:

- sets out how Greater Manchester should develop up until 2037;
- identifies the amount of new development that will come forward across the 10 districts, in terms of housing, offices, and industry and warehousing, and the main areas in which this will be focused;
- supports the delivery of key infrastructure, such as transport and utilities;
- protects the important environmental assets across the city region;
- allocates sites for employment and housing outside of the existing urban area; and
- defines a new green belt boundary for Greater Manchester

The plan talks about jobs and homes, but it's about so much more than bricks and mortar. It's about reducing inequalities, improving the lives of our residents, and transforming Greater Manchester into the world-leading city-region we know it can be.
